Action Wouldn't Affect Carroll, Stovall Terms

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Whatever happens regarding the power of the lieutenant governor's office won't be implemented until both Gov. Julian Carroll and Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall finish their terms.

The governor has made it clear that if the legislature decided to restore some responsibilities of the lieutenant governor, Mrs. Stovall's successor would be the beneficiary.

The sequence would be logical, for it was Carroll as lieutenant governor—and Senate president during the 1974 session—who pushed the bill which removed the No. 2 officeholder as chairman of the prestigious Legislative Research Commission.

Of course, Carroll was pretty sure at the time he would be elected governor in 1975—as he was by an overwhelming margin—and the 1974 legislation in effect gave him control of the LRC.

The strangest twist would be if Mrs. Stovall became the next governor and found she had to deal with a lieutenant governor whose power had been revived by the 1978 General Assembly.

But that potential irony is pure speculation, suffice it to say that Carroll plans to stand aside when next year's assembly considers the question.

"The historical influence of the question should be considered free of the governor's position," he said in an interview.

Carroll said he will suggest to the assembly that the major question is "what duties, if any, should legislatively be designated for the office of the lieutenant governor."

The legislature should not consider restoring the lieutenant governor to the LRC "just to give (him or her) something to do... it ought to be considered on its merits," he said.

The governor's professed intent when he suggested the change years ago was to make the bipartisan IRC "an independent body free of the executive influence of the governor."

Terry McBrayer, currently Carroll's choice to succeed him in 1979, told Carroll as a House member in 1974 he was against the proposal.

Local Man Charged After Raid Saturday

A local man has been charged in connection with a raid on a home west of Murray Saturday afternoon, according to Kentucky State Police.

Troopers confiscated 1,710 cans and bottles of beer, and 53 fifths of assorted liquors, in the raid at four p.m. Saturday.

Glen Dale Underhill was charged with possession of alcoholic beverages for purpose of resale in a local dry option territory, according to state police.

Underhill was released on $250 bond after appearing before County Judge Robert O. Miller.

TVA Power Supplies On Hot Days Expected To Be Tight

TVA power supplies on hot days are expected to be tight for the rest of the summer, with demands running substantially above last summer's levels, the agency said today.

Power demands already have reached record summer levels, with the hottest weather yet to come, according

Home Improvement Page Debuts On Page Five Of Today's Paper

A new weekly feature of The Murray Ledger & Times — a building and home improvement page — makes its debut in today's edition of the newspaper.

The page, which will be published each Tuesday, will contain articles and illustrations on home improvement ideas, home plans and ideas for the do-it-yourselfer. Also contained on the page will be advertisements from local merchants who can help the homeowner with improving his or her home.

Today's Home Improvement Page is on page five. We hope you enjoy it.

For Most Americans, July 4 Was Return To Low-Key Normality

By The Associated Press
July 4, 1977: Bicentennial plus one. For most Americans, this Fourth of July was a return to low-key normality.

In most places the spirit was light-hearted. Billy Carter, the President's brother, appeared at a World Champion Pole-Climbing Contest and played softball in Lexington, Tenn. There were fireworks and rallies, picnics and concerts, regattas and parades throughout the land. And few dissenters anywhere.

Racial turmoil, Vietnam, Watergate seemed echoes of the past. And most people weren't listening.

Instead, Air Force demonstration jets screamed over the Statue of Liberty and tiny racing sailboats slapped the waters of New York Harbor. Under sunny skies in Tuscaloosa, Ala., there were arts and crafts, games for all ages, softball, rock music and bluegrass.

Night skies exploded with fireworks over the Hudson River in New York, the Charles River in Boston, the Mall in Washington, D.C. — and over Muscle Shoals, Ala., and countless small towns.

Actor John Cullum did the traditional reading of the Declaration of Independence at Federal Hall on Wall Street in New York. Four to five thousand people stood — intent, respectful.

In Washington, health consultant Larry Peaco relaxed against a tree in West Potomac Park and said he felt a "collective relief. All the bad stuff is over... Maybe the last of the Watergate ghosts have been exorcised."

The day was not entirely harmonious, but the discord was scattered.

At John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York, a gunman seized a bus and held its passengers hostage for nine hours before being captured. Two people were killed.

In Skokie, Ill., anti-Nazi demonstrators rallied against the threat that courts will allow an American Nazi group to march through the town, where 7,000 survivors of Nazi concentration camps live.

In Columbus, Ohio, state highway patrolmen quickly broke up a fracas between rallying Ku Klux Klansmen and counter-protestors who used clubs and fists to try to prevent the rally.

In Oakland, Calif., where Black Panther leader Huey Newton was in jail pending efforts to release him on bail while he awaits trial, a march and rally for "jobs and justice" was scheduled — but its political tone made it unusual for this year.

In nearby Berkeley, a Fantasy Costume Parade was staged, and across the bay in San Francisco, the main event was a fireworks display at Candlestick Park baseball stadium, preceded by music by the Golden Gate Park Band and a daytime Giants'

Calloway Co. Unemployment Drops In May

Calloway County's unemployment rate took another sharp drop during the month of May, and remains substantially below both the state and national average.

Calloway County's rate for May was 2.8 per cent, compared to 4.5 per cent in April and 6.6 per cent in March, according to figures released this month by the Department for Human Resources.

The western Kentucky unemployment rate dropped to 3.2 per cent in May, compared to 4.0 per cent in April, and 5.2 in March.

Robert MacDonald, chief labor analyst for the state said "The current decline is primarily due to increased hiring throughout industry."

The statewide average of 3.6 per cent remains well below the national rate of 6.4 per cent for May. The state average in April was 4.4 per cent.

State figures show Calloway County with a civilian labor force of 12,646, out of a total labor force of 1,419,155 throughout the state.

There were 12,296 persons employed in Calloway County in May, leaving 350 persons out of work.

Graves County showed an unemployment rate of 4.6 per cent in May, compared to 6.8 per cent in April. Marshall County had an unemployment rate of 5.7 per cent, compared to 7.5 per cent in April, and down from 10.5 per cent in March. Trigg County's rate for May was 2.7, down from 4.1 in April and 5.4 in March.

The rate of unemployment in the Western Kentucky region was 3.2 per cent, with Ballard and Hopkins Counties sharing the low level of 1.8 per cent, while Mercer County had the highest rate at 5.7 per cent.

200 Attend Reunion At Old Hardin High School

Thirty-nine of the 40 classes were represented Saturday night as about 200 persons jammed the dining room at the Old High School Building in Hardin for the first annual high school reunion.

There were six members of the class of 1917 but only two survive. However, both were on hand for the gala affair. Mrs. Hontas Trevathan Castleberry, at 79 came from Hamilton, Ohio, to claim the prize awarded to the oldest graduate. Louis Jackson was the other member of that first graduating group and he came from Paducah.

Most other classes through 1966, the final year, did not have that high percentage, but only 1933 was missing. The newest class had been out 21 years so most were able to exclaim over additional weight, gray hairs, and grandchildren, a spokesman said.

The Hardin Senior Citizens group directed by Thelma Nanney served a sumptuous meal topped off by fresh peach cobbler which added further to the already ample waistlines of some.

The group elected Dr. Ray Mofield of Hardin and Murray State University as president; and Dorothy Holland Warren of Hardin as secretary-treasurer. Plans were made to meet again the July 4th weekend of 1978. A vice president and board of directors is to be elected later.

Grant Approved For Local Articles

The Kentucky Humanities Council, based in Lexington, has announced that it has approved a grant for $1,550 to Murray State University for a series of newspaper articles on significant public issues which will appear this fall in The Murray Ledger & Times.

The grant is an extension of a similar pilot project which appeared in the newspaper this past spring entitled "Local Issues Forum."

The project will be directed by Robert L. Burke, chairman of the Department of History at Murray State and T. Wayne Beasley, a professor of history at MSU, will be the assistant project director. Gene McCutcheon, editor of The Murray Ledger & Times, will coordinate the project for the newspaper.

The articles were designed to provide an avenue for humanities professors and others to share their insights on local and national problems with the public. Responses from the public will be encouraged.

Doug Hampton, 16, works at clearing away an area for a future archery range at Hillman Ferry Campground in Land Between The Lakes, TVA's 170,000-acre public demonstration area located in western Kentucky and Tennessee. Hampton is working with the Youth Conservation Corps in Land Between The Lakes and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hampton of Murray.

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

The rains of last week have certainly been delightful. I watched from my window as the refreshing showers fell steadily one afternoon and I could see the thirsty earth drinking up every drop and I could also believe the plants were stretching up their necks to catch every bit that fell. It made a big difference in the looks of everything in the yard, as a good rain is worth more than a dozen sprinklings with the hose. Water needs to get down to the roots and it probably saved some of the growing things that needed water so badly.

I am afraid we have a long hot spell ahead of us during July and maybe a shortage of rain. This will mean an increased water bill, but we can't let plants die. We can cultivate frequently, and MULCH heavily. All of this will help. If we can just get through July, things should be easier.

Cut back the pansy plants now and they will put out new shoots for later blooming. Keep blossoms picked off of all annuals as they take strength from plants and will form seed. Then there will be less bloom, and a shorter season.

Pests seem to thrive on hot weather. So keep a good supply of Sevin or similar spray, for the vegetables. Squash seem to be especially inviting to worms that will literally eat up a squash in one day. People who plant anything have to fight to be able to garner a crop. Beetles, bugs, worms, the weather all seem to combine against us. But when we learn the right insecticide to use for various pests and use them properly, we can keep them under control. The County Agent can be of help in all such things and is glad to tell us what to do.

Late beans can be planted now and those little delicious butter peas planted now will bring in some mighty good eating before the frost comes. We have wonderfully productive soil all through this area and with a little help it will grow almost anything.

This humid weather is hard on roses and is conducive to blackspot. If possible keep the yellowed leaves picked up and destroyed. Use a good rose dust and it can be controlled. Roses need plenty of water and light feeding to bring them through.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

Family Says Fiance Beneath Her Station

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old widow contemplating marriage to a widower. He is affectionate, trustworthy, and thoughtful. He loves my children and they love him. He is a wonderful father to his own children. He cooks, cleans, washes, and never complains. We couldn't help but have smooth sailing, and I do love him, but my problem is the strong objections my family has to this man. They don't like him because our backgrounds are so different. My parents are culture-conscious and somewhat snobbish. My friend is the eldest of 15 children of a struggling immigrant family. His English is not very good because he hasn't had the educational advantages I've had.

If left alone, I'm sure we could overcome these differences, but I am very close to my family, and they could make life unbearable for me if I were to marry this man. I've told him yes, but wonder if perhaps I should reverse my decision. Do you consider my parents' objection too great a stumbling block?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Yes, because apparently you do. When you are able to say, "I intend to live my own life with a man of my choice, and if my parents don't like it, they can lump it," I'll reverse my answer.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know what I am writing to you for. My problem is money, and you can't help me unless you get big-hearted and send me a check for $50,000. I own my own business and make good money, but my wife spends it faster than I can make it. To make matters worse, I have four daughters who are exactly like their mother. I am drowning in bills every month, and there doesn't seem to be any end to it. Will you please tell my wife and daughters to quit being extravagant?

OWES PLENTY

DEAR OWES: No, that's YOUR JOB. It's bad enough to have spoiled your wife, but you are guilty of perpetuating the crime by raising four more females in her image. Turn off those charge accounts, Dad, and put your wife on an allowance.

DEAR ABBY: A girl I work with is getting married soon, and she wants to borrow my wedding gown and veil. She's not even a close friend, but she's seen pictures of my wedding and says that's exactly the kind of gown and veil she's always wanted. Unfortunately, we're the same size, too.

Abby, I'm saving my wedding gown for my two younger sisters to wear—and someday I will have daughters who will want to wear it. So many of my friends have told me they let someone wear their wedding gowns and they were returned in terrible condition that I hate to take the chance.

What story can I tell this girl so I won't have to let her wear it? I hate to have her mad at me, as we work together every day.

SIZE TEN

DEAR TEN: Why make up a story? Tell her the truth.

CONFIDENTIAL TO R. IN ST. PAUL: You must be kidding! It is highly improper for Sue and her boyfriend and her boyfriend's mother to sleep in the same bed. I don't care WHO sleeps in the middle!

FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 6, 1977

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Mostly favorable influences. Do not let pressures or tensions hamper steady, well-tempered action. Especially favored: research, written matters, personal relationships.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Above-average opportunities indicated, but you may have to seek out some for yourself. It will be possible now to obtain cooperation you could not get in the past.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Make a dry run for future reference in vital areas, but with system and consistency, not sporadically or in haste. Shun needless argument.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

A potentially fine day. Through sheer force of personality, you can break down opposition and get what you want.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Personal relationships under some restrictions. Don't discuss secret plans with anyone, or you'll have reason for regret later.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Good Mercury influences stimulate your skills and capabilities. You should feel enthusiastic about the way things go now.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Skepticism could defeat the fully charged action this day deserves. Believe in yourself and in your goals—and keep forging ahead.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Stellar influences now favor novel pursuits, imaginative revitalizing of all interests. Display your talents in marketable areas.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Avoid being led astray by those who are heedless of consequences, careless of responsibilities. You will face more distractions than you think, so keep up your guard.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

You rarely imitate, preferring to produce in your own way. However, this day will require more attention to others' methods and know-how.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Express your ideas and opinions discreetly but firmly. Don't leave stones unturned which may have gems beneath. A generally good day—if you cooperate.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

A conservative and prudent attitude will keep you from going overboard through misguided enthusiasm—a tendency now. Be especially cautious in romantic matters.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly conventional and ultra-conservative; also idealistic and humanitarian in your impulses—could not only succeed, but be eminently happy in any career where you could be of service to your fellowmen, such as medicine, institutional or any other kind of welfare work. Teaching is also an excellent field for you but, here, you will have to learn to be more patient with those less gifted than yourself. If so inclined, you could take up writing—with marked success. Traits to curb: jealousy and hypersensitivity. Birthdate of: John Paul Jones, Amer. naval officer.

Stow and Jackson

Miss Diane Stow

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stow of Palmersville, Tn., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Diane, to James R. Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jackson of Murray.

Miss Stow is a graduate of Palmersville High School. She received her B. S. degree in secondary education from the University of Tennessee at Martin and a M. A. T. degree in mathematics from Murray State University. She is presently employed by the Calloway County Board of Education.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Bolivar Stow and the late Mrs. Stow of Dresden, Tn., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Lacey Winstead of Palmersville, Tn.

Mr. Jackson is a graduate of Calloway County High School and is employed as staff manager with the Kentucky Central Life Insurance serving Murray and Paris, Tn. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jackson and the late Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Brandon, all of Murray.

The wedding will be solemnized on Saturday, July 23, at eight p. m. at the Memorial Baptist Church, Murray. A reception will follow at the church.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the wedding and the reception.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE MEETS—The Advisory Committee for Home Economics and the Future Homemakers of America Chapter at Murray High School met for a luncheon meeting at DeVanti's on Wednesday, June 15. The group discussed ways to help in the planning and evaluating of the program as to improve and make home economics better for students. Suggestions that were proposed were continuing contacts with other home economists on a regional, state, and national level, visiting other school systems by faculty and students, continuing home visits by teachers to students, encouraging eighth graders to take home economics and join FHA, to have older girls speak to classes, to bring in graduates to give talks, and to have a follow-up program to see how home economics has benefitted former high school students. Those attending were, left to right, standing, Teresa Cunningham, past president of FHA and graduate of Murray High, Charlotte Barker, guidance counselor, MHS, Mrs. Alfred (Jean) Lindsey, Jr., parent, Eli Alexander, assistant superintendent, Dorotha Bailey, home economics teacher, Walter Apperson, parent and businessman, seated, Lucy Lilly and Sally Crass, home economics teachers.

A nail polish bottle can easily be knocked over, or the applicator brushed onto a favorite garment as you stroke fingernails. For prompt attention, it is wise to have a bottle of nail polish remover handy. The first step in removal is to place the stain face down on paper towels and sponge the area with remover (acetone). Moving the stain to a clean part of the paper towel frequently, continue sponging until the stain disappears. Launder the garment immediately. Do not use nail polish remover on acetate or Arnel fabrics — send these items to the dry cleaner. — Dean Roper, Courthouse, Mayfield.

Potpourri is simple to put together and makes a fine gift. Snip the roses early in the day when they are at their peak and place the petals, along with any other flowers you want to dry, on a sheet of newspaper to dry in a warm, well-ventilated spot away from the light. Include a few leaves for color. Stir mixture daily until petals and leaves are completely dry and brittle. Next combine spices in a mixing bowl: 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon allspice, 2 tablespoons powdered orrisroot (you can get it at the drug store), 1 tablespoon cloves, and 3 tablespoons cinnamon. Fill an apothecary jar (stone, porcelain, or glass) with alternate layers of petals and spices. Cover. Sniff. — Judy Hetterman, Hickman.

The main reason for cultivating a vegetable garden is weed control. Weeds rob vegetables of water, plant foods, space and light. Soil in a loose condition also aids in catching rainfall. Many vegetable crops have most of their roots in the top few inches of soil. Therefore cultivation should be as shallow as possible and only as often as necessary to control weeds and break a hard crust. Deep cultivation can greatly reduce yields. — Maxine Griffin, Clinton.

Senior Citizens... here's a challenge. Share with us your wisdom and knowledge. Give of yourself. Help those around you. You don't have to be a physician to be a healer. You don't have to be a nurse to aid the ill and lonely. You don't have to be a man of the cloth or wear a nun's habit to hold out a helping hand in a moment of crisis. You don't have to be a parent to pass along your experiences to boys and girls. You don't have to wait for the day when you'll have nothing but leisure; to have something to do, help someone else along the road you've already traveled, the time to begin is now! — Mrs. Sue Fraser, Bardwell.

Botulism, Canning Methods Discussed By Local Agent

From The Desk Of
JEAN W. CLOAR
Calloway County Extension Agent For Home Economics

BOTULISM EXPLAINED
Regular spoilage in our home-canned foods we can recognize—the bulging lid, the leaking seal, the spurting liquid, the off-odor or mold. We discard the food, scrub and sterilize the jar. And we try to be more careful in our food preservation practices.

But botulism spoilage is different because you can't see it or smell it. And you NEVER taste the food for an off-flavor—that could be fatal.

Botulism is a toxin (poison) produced by clostridium botulinum spores that originate in the soil. The spores themselves are not dangerous. They won't grow or produce deadly botulism toxin in the presence of air. A high-acid content in food also discourages their growth, which is why fruits can be safely canned in a boiling-water-bath canner.

But if these spores are present in a low-acid food and are not destroyed by heat, they can grow without air in sealed jars of foods.

STEAM-PRESSURE CANNING

Approved canning methods, which include using a pressure canner for all meats and low-acid vegetables, raise the temperatures to high enough levels long enough to keep the foods safe from botulism and free of other types of spoilage.

When tomatoes are over-ripe, they decline in acidity, which is why home canners are cautioned to choose only those at the just-right-for-fresh-eating stage of maturity. Food specialists also recommend the addition of lemon juice, vinegar, or citric acid. To each quart of tomatoes or tomato juice, you should add one of the following: ½ teaspoon of citric acid, 4 teaspoons of bottled lemon juice, or 2 tablespoons of 5 percent vinegar.

BOIL BEFORE EATING
Every season there are many first-time canners. Not everybody follows directions to the letter. And even old-time canners get careless or make a mistake now and then. That's why it's a wise precaution to boil all your home-canned low-acid vegetables at least 10 minutes before serving, and 20 minutes for corn or greens.

If you want to use home-canned beans, for instance, in a cold three-bean salad, boil them 10 minutes first and then cool them down for the salad.

NUTRITIONAL CONTENT
Will that extra boiling time hurt the nutritional content of vegetables? Yes, it will cut down some on such nutrients as vitamin C, but safety factors overrule any loss in food value.

Second Annual Farmington Community Day On July 30

Members of the various clubs and organizations in the Farmington community recently met and discussed plans for the second annual Farmington Community Day on Saturday July 30. Those clubs represented were the Farmington Friendship Club, Farmington Homemakers Club, Farmington Optimist Club, Farmington Masonic Lodge, and the Farmington Chapter of Future Farmers of America.

Activities for the day will include a country store, flea market, dunking board, bake sale, concession stand, childrens pet show, games, and contests. There will be entertainment throughout the day by various groups from the area. An auction will be held every hour and prizes will be given away every hour, a spokesman said.

All proceeds will go for the improvement of the Farmington Community Building and grounds. The committee which is made up of members from the various clubs asks that items for the days activities named above be donated by members of the community.

For further information contact Howard Colley, Donnie Arnett, Mrs. Robert Colley, Mrs. James Ray Flood, or Kenneth Galloway.

Wyatt Race An Interesting Sidelight

FRANKFORT — Much has been written in recent weeks about the apparent campaigning of prospective gubernatorial candidates before the U.S. Senate race next year.

The cry from the administration camp is that the prospective candidates should wait until after the race of Senator Walter Dee Huddleston for reelection.

The losing race of former Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt in 1962 is used as an example.

The humorous part of the Wyatt race hasn't been retold, and I think it is one of the interesting sidelights of Kentucky politics.

Wyatt was trying to unseat Republican Thruston Morton. A.B. (Happy) Chandler had announced his 1963 campaign for governor against Edward T. Breathitt. It was no secret that Chandler was secretly helping Morton as part of his effort to defeat the Combs-Breathitt faction of the party.

Gollday LaMott, prominent farm leader and former Fair Board member, also lived in Hopkinsville and was a strong Breathitt supporter. In the 1962 Senate race, LaMott took out a full page ad in the Hopkinsville New Era supporting Breathitt. His wording was a little unfortunate. One bold line in the ad said, "A vote for Wyatt is a vote for Ned Breathitt."

When Wyatt found out about this, he is attributed as saying, "Good God. Gollday."

The Morton forces immediately had thousands of the ads produced in circular form and scattered from all over the state.

No one really knows whether this incident contributed to Wyatt's defeat or not, but some of the politicians and observers around Frankfort thought so.

Another strange part of this is that

Chandler seemed to have the upper hand in the Democratic primary for governor up to March or early April of 1963. Breathitt really hit the campaign trail, adapting the successful theme song of Gov. Matthew Welsh of Indiana. It was "Look him over."

Breathitt won the primary.

On another campaign note, the Carroll people are quarreling with George Atkins about running while he is in office. That certainly isn't anything new. Carroll spent his four years as lieutenant governor making his contacts for his own gubernatorial campaign. Gov. Wendell Ford and his strong supporter J. R. Miller failed to get Carroll in the U. S. Senate race and Ford took on Marlow Cook.

Ford also used his office as lieutenant governor to run for the governorship. Even stronger than that, Miller used Ford's Capitol office during the 1970 legislative session to pressure campaign donations for Ford.

There's always talk about getting an incumbent state official to resign if he is campaigning for a statewide office. This is nothing new. Robert R. Martin, when he was superintendent of Public Instruction under Chandler, was Gov. Bert T. Combs' campaign manager.

Editorials across the state didn't phase Martin. He held onto his office until his term expired and he was successful in electing Combs.

Martin then became Finance Commissioner under Combs and after about a year became president of Eastern Kentucky State University at Richmond. He did an excellent job there and retired last year.

Now, he will be in the Kentucky Senate when the legislature convenes in 1978. If he is as good as a senator as he was in his other public positions, his district will have no cause for regret.

Carter's Real Energy Policy?

WASHINGTON — President Carter startled members of the House Ways and Means Committee in a private session last week when he suddenly referred to a "great national treasure" of untapped oil and gas reserves in the U. S. which would be available for future use under his energy program.

The underlying philosophy of the Carter program has always stressed conservation rather than discovery of new sources of diminishing gas and oil reserves. Congressmen have often heard Mr. Carter spell out the rationale of conserving energy by reducing its use but never the rationale of conserving energy by keeping American oil and gas in the ground as a "national treasure" for future use. That means U. S. consumers must continue buying ever-larger quantities of foreign oil and gas to close the gap between domestic production and falling domestic production, until substitutes become economically available.

The implications of the President's almost offhand statement about preserving a "great national treasure" for 15 to 25 years in the future are profound. It came toward the end of a 90-minute session on Wednesday, June 22, in the White House, in answer to questions from Reps. William Steiger of Wisconsin, Philip Crane of Illinois, L. A. Bafalis of Florida, all Republicans, and others.

A strong supporter of some form of "plowback" to the oil industry of part of the wellhead tax that forms the heart of the energy program, Steiger pleaded with Mr. Carter to compromise his opposition to any form of "plowback." If it was important, Steiger said, that the energy program have the widest possible backing in the country, then some of the wellhead tax should be used to finance new exploration.

Mr. Carter said no, the industry needs no additional incentives. More important, he went on, he did not think it made sense to maximize new production "at this time" (as several present recall the President's words). America should "husband" its dwindling resources.

That implies a ceiling of sorts on oil production on the theory it is more valuable in the ground — for future use — than out. A case can be made for such a policy, but it hasn't been made. Indeed, there has been no national debate of any kind on such a policy; no effort to balance national gains and losses from slow-vs.-rapid depletion of present reserves; no study of the effect of such a public U. S. policy on production decisions in Saudi Arabia, which is under heavy, continuing U. S. pressure to pump its reserves out of the ground ever faster to feed the West.

The Saudi problem may explain the administration's secrecy. An announced American policy to slow the rate of depleting its oil and gas reserves could give the Saudis a respectable economic pretext to diminish their own production if Mr. Carter's Mideast peace plan fails. A Saudi production cutback from 10 million to 5 or 6 million barrels a day could throw Western Europe and the U. S. into new recessions.

But if the U. S. adopts a policy that oil is worth more underground, Saudi Arabia could not be faulted for doing the same.

The Congressmen who heard Mr. Carter that day have not asked questions publicly for one reason: the session was off the record and they are respecting that ground rule.

An unusual communication from a very high official in the Japanese government has elevated the already high prestige of Ambassador Robert Strauss. Mr. Carter's fast-talking, quick-footed special trade representative. In a confiding mood with an intimate several days ago in his White House office, Vice President Mondale described the confidential missive as "absolutely extraordinary."

It praised Strauss, whose old reputation as Democratic national chairman was based on skillful use of brains, charm and snake oil, for the new voluntary quotas placed on Japanese TV sets exported to the U. S. — an agreement high U. S. officials felt had infuriated Tokyo.

Mondale, obviously reflecting his boss, told friends that Strauss's success as trade negotiator was a question "of Strauss keeping so many balls in the air at the same time that no one knows where they are except him."

A footnote: President and Mrs. Carter took Strauss and his wife, Helen, to the Kennedy Center to see Marcel Marceau from the presidential box on June 16, an unusual occurrence for a non-member of the Georgia Mafia: Strauss's swift ascent from presidential campaign outsider to the presidential inner circle worries Strauss allies who caution him that sometimes the road down can be even faster than the road up.

Consumer Comment

By Mindy Burdette

Phony Invoices

A local bank recently received a bill from California for a listing in a business directory. The invoice stated that a person in the bank "authorized" the listing. After close inspection of the invoice, the bank accountant noticed at the bottom of it there were the statements "THIS IS NOT A BILL, this is a solicitation. You are under no obligation to pay unless you accept this offer."

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Office has recently been swamped with complaints about such deceptive solicitations, and the complaints are coming from businesses all over Kentucky.

Another very similar problem involves merchandise "invoices which are really just solicitations." Companies typically telephone local businesses asking if they can send a few samples of their merchandise. They assure these businesses that confirmation of the order will be made before shipping, but often these confirmations are not made with an authorized employee, or are not made at all.

The merchandise shipment usually includes several dozen times more than the few agreed upon, along with a bill for hundreds of dollars more than the normal retail price of the order. When local merchants attempt to return the merchandise, the company refuses to accept delivery and demands payment for the order.

Before paying a suspicious bill compare it to your purchase order for the merchandise, and check each business invoice for proper signature, type of product, number of units, price per unit, total cost, and date of delivery. If the invoice does not contain the correct information or if it does not contain a disclaimer such as "THIS IS NOT A BILL" or "This is a solicitation. You are under no obligation to pay unless you accept this offer," report the company to the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division or to the Postal Inspection Service in Cincinnati, Ohio, 45201 for investigation. Also, be sure you do not pay a bill before delivery of the merchandise is made. You may end up paying for something that you never receive.

Any mailed material that could be mistaken for a bill or invoice, but is actually a solicitation for an order, cannot be mailed unless the words "THIS IS NOT A BILL" are printed on the front of the invoice in easily readable type. It does not have to be printed on the envelope. The phrase must be typed in boldface capital letters that are at least as large as the other print and of a contrasting color from the background against which it appears.

Any solicitation that states it has been approved by the Postal Service or the Postmaster General or that it conforms to any postal law or regulation is nonmaillable. These matters should be reported to either the Attorney General's Office or to the Postal Inspection Service.

Remember to always check bills carefully to be sure that the proper amount, price, personnel signature and dates are included and that you do not pay for merchandise that has not been delivered.

If you have any questions about mail solicitations or phony invoices, contact the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write when you have a complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the Consumer Hotline. The number is 1-800-372-2960.

Perplexed doctors, respectful of warnings from the federal Food and Drug Administration that saccharin may cause cancer, still are reluctant to give up what they believe to be an important tool in controlling diabetes and other diseases.

And they have endorsed the continued sale of saccharin, suggesting that it carry a label admonishing that the artificial sweetener may be dangerous.

One physician dramatized the dilemma during a debate among the AMA's House of Delegates, saying, "I hope my diabetic patients live long enough to get cancer of the bladder from saccharin."

Congress, too, has taken note of saccharin's promise to dieters. A Senate committee rejected a House-approved measure that would block a proposed FDA ban of saccharin only after assurances that a separate bill would be expedited prohibiting the ban for 18 months.

The basis for the FDA action, now scheduled for Oct. 1, is a series of Canadian tests showing that the substance caused cancer in rats.

The reprieve for saccharin proposed by Congress will allow further research to rebut or confirm the Canadian conclusions, intensive search for another sugar substitute or, perhaps, adoption of the medical group's recommendation. The delay is warranted.

The partially deaf population of the United States is up to an estimated 20 million, reports the Health Insurance Institute — about one in 10 people in the nation with some degree of hearing loss.

And some two million Americans have so little hearing capacity that they are unable to understand normal speech.

The two groups with the highest incidence of hearing problems are premature children and our older population.

According to the National Health Education Committee, people developing the sclerotic changes of old age have a far higher incidence of sensory nerve deafness than people in younger groups.

At the same time, the incidence of hearing problems in premature children is nearly seven times that found in children delivered normally.

Letter To The Editor

Remembers Start Of Daily

Dear Walt and Gene:

The recent celebration of the Ledger's 30th anniversary as a daily paper brought back pleasant memories and, no little nostalgia, though it did little to encourage the notion that I am still a young man.

The acceptance of my applications as a carrier for the Ledger coincided with the paper's inaugural as a daily. As a 12-year-old, I thus experienced my first public work and began to learn the trade of a budding entrepreneur.

My recall of the summer of 1947 includes the sometimes frustrating effort to convert a route accustomed to weekly delivery to that of a daily. However, as the summer waned and the subscribers increased, the operation became more routine and the rewards more handsome.

My sincere congratulations to each of the officers and staff of the Ledger on this benchmark of local journalism. May I also take this opportunity to say that I and my family regard the Ledger as top quality — a news source which has become indispensable to our need of being kept well informed.

Again, congratulations to one and all. Kindest personal regards, Geo. Edward Overbey, Jr.

ON THE HOUSE

From various sources come these bits of information of interest to the homeowner:

What are known in the real estate industry as "empty nesters" represent the majority of condominium buyers, according to a survey by Chicago developer Bernard Katz. Empty nesters are married couples, usually over 40, with no dependents at home, who are seeking the amenities of home in a condominium unit. The study showed that they "want to get out from under the burdens of single-family home ownership and maintenance, yet at the same time enjoy the advantages of life in a single-family dwelling."

A new permanent exhibit in the National Museum of History and Technology at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C., is a so-called "balloon frame" house built over 100 years ago. The balloon-frame method revolutionized construction techniques in the early 1800s; it differed from old systems in the size of the framing members, the use of nails to hold the frame together and in the use of studs, 16 inches on center, that ran from the sill to the plate and roof.

The president of the United States League of Savings Associations, John Hardin, says the nation's primary home-buying age group — those between 30 and 44 — is growing faster than any other. He says that, to help meet the demand, prospective homeowners should be given greater flexibility in the types of available mortgages.

The Brick Institute of America quotes a study carried out by the Portland Cement Association showing that brick walls proved more efficient in cutting heating and cooling costs than wood walls. Studies conducted by and for companies turning out wood products say the opposite. Take your pick.

A mortgage company in Seattle, Wash., is issuing credit cards to qualified persons enabling them to use the cards for the purchase of houses. The card signifies that the company will back the buyer for a specific amount of money at the going interest rates. The idea is to eliminate the delay in waiting for a purchaser's credit to clear.

A new standard building code goes into effect in Rhode Island this summer that allows more freedom in the construction of houses, notably in the use of new materials and methods. Under the old "performance" code, builders were told exactly what materials had to be used.

Under the new one, they can use whatever they wish provided the materials meet certain performance tests. The building components will be inspected at their place of manufacture by certified engineers or testing firms approved by the Building Code Standards Committee. The buildings themselves will be inspected at the installation sites by local building officials. Builders in all parts of the country have been campaigning for codes of this type for many years. Rhode Island joins the small list of states that have paid heed.

The Gem City Savings Association of Troy, Ohio, clarifies a point that may have misled some prospective home buyers. It says that, under an amendment to a 1974 law, financial institutions must supply precise calculations on costs one working day before closing IF the buyer requests it.

(Do-it-yourselfers will find much helpful information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N. J. 07666.)

Q — I know that the thickness of resilient sheet flooring is measured in mils or thousandths of an inch. What I want to know is whether thickness is related to wearability?

A — The floor's durability is determined by the thickness or strength of what is called the "wear layer" or top layer. The total thickness of the flooring can be misleading in some cases, since most resilient flooring is made in layers. The bottom is backing, in such cases, the middle layer is cushioning and the top layer is the one which gets the wear.

Q — I often see reference to a certain number of squares of roofing. What does this mean?

A — One square is the amount of roofing material required to cover a 100-square-foot area of roof surface. An area 10 feet by 10 feet would constitute 100 square feet; thus, it would require one square of roofing material to cover an area 10 feet by 10 feet.

Q — If the R numbers on insulation stand for the thickness of the insulation, why not merely say how thick the insulation is and forget about the R numbers?

A — Because the R numbers stand for resistance to winter heat loss or summer heat gain, not precise thicknesses. One brand of insulation might be slightly thicker or thinner than another, but if they're marked with the same R number, they will resist heat flow equally well. For instance, R-19 mineral wool batts are 5 to 7 inches thick; I-13 blankets 3 1/2 to 3 inches thick; R-11, 3 to 4 inches.

Q — While I have a power sander, I still do quite a bit of hand sanding. I never quite seem to know when to use a hard backing for the sandpaper and when to use a soft one. Can you help me?

A — The finer the sanding being done, the more important it is that the backing have a give to it. When doing very coarse sanding, you might use a metal block; a little less coarse, wood; for fine sanding, a rubber or felt pad.

Q — In shopping for sandpaper, I noticed one of them had the term "open-coated" on it. What does this mean and what is that type of sandpaper used for?

A — Open coating means the mineral particles on the backing are spaced far apart. This makes the sandpaper especially suitable for removing paint or working on old finishes or gummy surfaces because it allows the sanded material to fall free without clogging the paper.

Q — While fixing a piece of old stained glass in our house a few years back, I became interested in creating more designs in glass. I have since produced many lamp shades, window ornaments and wall hangings which I now would like to sell. Is there a marketplace for such items?

A — There probably are several publications that give such information. One I have seen is "The Working Craftsmen," which shows you how to exhibit and sell through art fairs, shops and galleries and provides data on craft news and information on new supplies. Its address is Box 42F, Northbrook, Ill. 60062.

(The techniques of using varnish, shellac, lacquer, bleach, stain, wood filler, etc., are described in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N. Y. 11743. Mr. Lang regrets that questions cannot be answered individually, although those of general interest will be answered in the column.)

A nail hammer should not be used to strike hardened masonry nails, because dangerous chipping could occur, says the Hand Tools Institute.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

FLOOR PLAN

THE FARMHOUSE-AMERICAN exterior of this home also reflects an early American flavor on the inside. Plan HA990P by Samuel Paul features a "keeping room," an informal living area with the kitchen on one end. This large family room space has pegged plank flooring and a beamed ceiling. The basic home, minus the garage, laundry and mudroom, is 1,260 square feet. More information may be obtained by writing to the architect—enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope—at 107-40 Queens Blvd., Forest Hills, N.Y. 11375.

THE ADDITION of one wall of paneling in many instances can change the entire appearance of a room. In the room shown above, for example, the decorating goal was to achieve the most dramatic change at the least possible cost. Replacement of floor or window coverings, was ruled out; so was replacing the furniture. A single wall, in this case two sheets of 4 x 8 prefinished hardboard paneling, was decided upon. The paneling is Masonite brand Briarcliff, a rich-simulation of oak panel insets highlighted by detailed panel strips. The elegant, formal appearance of the wall paneling gives the room added depth and dimension. It attracts attention, yet remains aesthetically pleasing. Everything else in the room was left the same, even wall appliques, plants and knick-knacks. The difference? It's quite apparent, but you judge for yourself.

Modern methods make care of carpets a snap

Your carpets and rugs are among the most expensive furnishings in your home. So, it's no wonder that you want to take the best care of them you can. That means regular cleaning and attention to spots and stains — with the help of modern carpet care techniques.

Like kitchen floor. Actually, when it comes to cleaning, your carpet is very much like your kitchen floor. Most likely you frequently sweep the kitchen to remove dirt and crumbs and wash it regularly to remove grease, dirt, build-up.

Similarly, your carpet needs to be vacuumed to remove the gritty dirt that can shorten its life. This should be done a minimum of once a week, using long, slow strokes and going over each area several times. For best results, your vacuum should be in top working condition.

Don't allow dulling. Furthermore, like your kitchen floor, it's important to "wash" your carpeting to remove greasy soil and grime. (You may not have noticed the gradual dulling of your carpet color, but it's there.) Actually, cleaning your carpet is easy with the help of some of the modern new convenience products on your grocery shelf.

Easy way to save.

For heavy once- or twice-a-year cleanings, there are a number of machines you can rent in your local store that shampoo or "steam-clean" your rugs. They're easy to use and much less expensive than calling in a professional. Just follow the directions carefully.

Vacuum clean. In addition, for regular in-between cleanings, use Spray 'n Vac no-scrub rug cleaner. All you do is spray it on, wait until the foam dries and then vacuum up the dried foam and dirt! Your carpet is clean and bright again.

Spray 'n Vac is also excellent for removing spots and stains. The trick is always to treat the spot immediately — spoon up any solid material and blot up any liquids. Then just spray it on, following the directions on the can. Carpet care is easier than you think so. If you're thinking of trading in your old rugs for new, why not try brightening them instead with some modern and easy-to-do techniques!

Bosox End Skid, Hit Eight Homers In Win

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox are starting to sound like a broken record ... and continuing to look like record-breakers.

The home run-happy Red Sox have been hitting baseballs into the seats with fatiguing consistency all season long — and Monday tattooed eight more in a 9-6 decision over the Toronto Blue Jays.

"It's like a disease around here," said George Scott, biggest of the Boston boomers. "One guy gets home run fever — and every one else catches it."

Scott hit two of the homers to bring his season's total to 23. Fred Lynn added a pair for the Red Sox, while Butch Hobson, Bernie Carbo, Jim Rice and Carl Yastrzemski hit one each.

The explosion brought Boston's total for the season to 118 in 76 games and set them on a possible record-breaking course for season homers by a team. The New York Yankees hold the mark with 240 in 1961.

Meanwhile, the Red Sox set a major league record by hitting five or more home runs for the seventh time this season. The eight homers made the Red Sox the sixth team to reach the major-league record number.

Boston Manager Don Zimmer was impressed by the feat, but more impressed by the victory. It was the first by his team in 10 games.

"It's just fun to win a game," said Zimmer. "It was a long time coming. We needed something to break us out of this mess and we certainly got it with the ball flying out of here."

In other American League games, the California Angels defeated the Oakland A's 4-2; the Chicago White Sox turned back the Seattle Mariners 6-2; the Kansas City Royals edged the Texas Rangers 1-0; the New York Yankees outscored the Cleveland Indians 7-5; the Baltimore Orioles tripped the Detroit Tigers 6-4 and the Minnesota Twins blanked the Milwaukee Brewers, 5-0.

Angels 4, A's 2
Nolan Ryan struck out 11 batters to tie a Sandy Koufax record and rookie shortstop Rance Mulliniks drove in three runs with a homer and two singles, leading California over Oakland.

Ryan's 10th strikeout of the game, recorded against Marty Perez in the seventh inning, marked the 97th game in which the right-hander had notched 10 or more strikeouts, equalling Koufax's major league record.

White Sox 6, Mariners 2
Francisco Barrios hurled a five-hitter and Oscar Gamble, Jim Spencer and Ralph Garber hit home runs as Chicago beat Seattle. Gamble and Spencer slammed consecutive homers in the sixth, while Garr added a solo shot in the eighth. Jorge Orta drove in the other two White Sox runs with a two-run double in the seventh.

Royals 1, Rangers 0
Tom Poquette slugged a twoout, run-scoring single in the fifth and Jim Colborn and Mark Littell combined on a seven-hitter as Kansas City nipped Texas before a sellout crowd of 34,660.

Loser Gaylord Perry, 7-7, yielded eight scattered hits in a complete-game performance for the Rangers. Yankees 7, Indians 5
Chris Chambliss, Roy White and Graig Nettles socked second-inning home runs, helping Ed Figueroa win his first game in over a month as New York defeated Cleveland.

BAASTAD, Sweden — Defending champion Antonio Zugarelli scored a 6-3, 6-2 victory over countryman Gianni Occeppo in first-round action at the $75,000 Swedish Open Tennis Championship.

Twins, Yanks Tied For Lead In Little League

The Twins and the Yanks are tied for the lead in the Little League as a result of games played over the holiday weekend.

Friday's games were originally called off due to wet grounds but coaches and players got together late in the afternoon and managed to get the diamond in shape.

In Friday's action, the Yanks smashed the Pirates 15-0 in a battle of undefeated teams. Both were 4-0 coming into the game.

Kyle Evans hurled for the Yanks, allowing just two hits while fanning eight and walking two. For the Yanks, Mark Boggess had three hits while Nicky Santagado, David McCuiston, Kyle Evans and Andy Parks had two apiece. With one hit were Robert Stout, Jon Overbey, Bart Washer and Shey Guthrie.

Eddie Burgess and Melanie Kelly had the hits for the Pirates.

The second Friday game found the Twins upping their record to 4-1 while the Cubs fell to 1-4 as the Twins took a 12-10 win.

The Cubs had just two hits, one apiece from Mike Daniel and Diana Duncan.

For the Twins, Tim Wright had two hits while Roger Dunn, Gary Galloway, Ronnie Bryan, Tim Brown, Dana Pearson and David Snow all had one hit.

In play last night in the Little League, the Twins won while the Yanks were beaten by the Reds. That leaves the Yanks and Twins tied at 5-1 while the Reds are now 4-2. The Pirates, who remain at 4-1, play tonight, hoping to make the race a three-way tie.

The Twins romped to a 17-1 win over the Astros, who are now 2-4.

Tim Brown was the big stick for the winners as he had four hits and drove in six runs. Gary Galloway added three hits while Ronnie Bryan picked up two hits and drove in four runs. Tim Wright added one hit.

For the Astros, Ross James and Hal Orr hit safely.

In the second game, the Reds jumped to a 6-0 lead after three innings and went on to take a 9-4 victory over the Yanks. David McMillen hurled a four-hitter for the Reds, fanning 10 and walking none.

David McCuiston had two hits for the Yanks while Mark Boggess and Robert Stout also hit safely.

For the Reds, Todd Harrison had a pair of hits while McMillen and Jim Outland had one hit apiece.

Tanner Gets Present, Bucs Sweep Cardinals

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Manager Chuck Tanner, born on the Fourth of July, got some 48th birthday boos from Pittsburgh Pirate fans.

Yet he was all smiles and forgiveness after his struggling Pirates swept a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals Monday before a holiday crowd of 22,810.

"Shoot, I wish there were 50,000 here that would have thought I was making a mistake," said Tanner, who drew waves of ire from the stands with a move he made in Pittsburgh's 5-2 opening victory.

"That never bothers me. They pay to get in," Tanner added after Pittsburgh won the second game 4-3 on Dave Parker's tie-breaking solo homer in the ninth.

The fourth-place Pirates, who had lost eight of nine previous games, held a 3-2 lead into the seventh inning of the first game.

Mike Anderson opened the seventh with a single and took second on a sacrifice. That's when Tanner lifted pitcher Jim Rooker, who had allowed five hits.

The boos peaked as Tanner took the ball from Rooker and signalled for reliever Rich Gossage.

"They wanted Rooker to stay in the game because he was pitching well, but they didn't understand what was behind it," said Tanner.

Behind it: the fact Rooker had missed a prior start due to a shoulder injury and a one-hour rain interruption after three innings that required he warm up twice.

"I hate to leave any game," Rooker said when asked if he upset.

"I didn't think they hit the ball that hard off me ... but then again there's nothing you can do about it when the take you out," he added after raising his record to 6-5.

As it was, Gossage pitched 2 2/3 hitless innings, striking out six and walking two for his 14th save. Omar Moreno, who had singled home the tie-breaking run in the fourth off loser Tom Underwood, added a two-run insurance homer in the eighth off Al "The Mad Hungarian" Hrabosky, booted almost as loudly as Tanner.

"When I came in here, Rooker winked at me," Gossage said in the lockerroom. "That's a thanks. That's what it's all about."

Tanner declined to zing the fans who'd thought he'd made a mistake.

1941 Season For Reds Similar To This Year

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds cannot be comforted by history this season as they pursue the Los Angeles Dodgers through the National League West race.

There is precedent for the position they find themselves in, and it cannot be forgotten by 'Reds fans or players. In 1939, the Reds beat out St. Louis for the National League pennant, before losing to the New York Yankees in the World Series. The next year, the Reds won again, this time over Brooklyn, the forerunner of the Los Angeles Dodgers team. They then went on to win their first championship since 1919.

The next year, the Reds dropped to third place behind Brooklyn and St. Louis.

"In 1940, we got teamwork and things began to jell," recalled Frank McCormick, who played first base in those days and who is now a group sales representative for the Yankees. "When it began to look like we could get into the series, we used to hold meetings among ourselves to get things going. It wasn't like that the next year."

"We kept waiting and waiting and it never happened," McCormick, who led the league in hits and doubles in 1940, slipped from .309 to .269. His slump was characteristic of what happened to many of his teammates. The team average of .266 in 1940 dropped to .247. The Reds hit 25 fewer home runs.

The team's earned run average went from a league-low 3.05 in 1940 to 3.17.

"Some of us were getting a little bit of mileage on us," recalled Harry Craft, now scouting for the Houston Astros. "And the Dodgers brought in a lot of young players. They had a real hustling ball club."

The Dodgers had made two key acquisitions, picking up pitcher Kirby Higbe from Philadelphia and second baseman Billy Herman from Chicago.

Pee Wee Reese was playing his first full season that year, as was rookie sensation Pete Reiser.

The Reds added no outstanding players between the 1940 and 1941 seasons. The only major personnel change was a trade which sent shortstop Billy Myers to the Chicago Cubs.

The 1941 Reds did not have the pitching problems of their more modern counterparts.

Bucky Walters led the league in innings pitched, and Johnny Vander Meer led the league in strikeouts. Paul Derringer, another starter, slipped from a 20-game season in 1940 to 12-14.

"It was just one of those overall things," concluded Craft. "I don't think any of us were complacent. It wasn't so much a collapse on our part. It was a matter of the Dodgers improving themselves."

Landolt, Crass Win In Holiday Tennis Tourney

Gene Landolt and Gay Crass won the Mixed Doubles Scramble Tournament held over the weekend on the Murray High courts.

The tourney, sponsored by the Murray Tennis Association, raised approximately $175 for the use of the MTA, which is an organization that promotes junior tennis on the local level.

Landolt and Crass won 6-4 and 6-1 in the finals over Janette Hunt and A. W. Simmons.

In the semifinal play, Landolt-Crass won 6-0, 2-6 and 6-4 over Sue Overbey and Ken Hopkins while Hunt-Simmons won 6-3, 4-6 and 6-3 over Eddie Hunt and Penny Cappelk.

Charlie Warner and Janet Housden won in the consolation bracket as they defeated Ed Chrisman and Andrea Hogancamp in split sets.

In the semifinals of the consolation play, Warner-Housden won in split sets over Ben Hogancamp and Debbie Landolt while Chrisman-Hogancamp won in split sets over Hunt-Smock and Lochie Landolt.

The 40-year-old California native, once an assistant to former Bruins Coach John Wooden, was expected to reveal his decision after meeting this morning with Louisville Athletic Director Dave Hart.

The Newark Star-Ledger, in its Tuesday editions, quoted a highly-placed source as saying that Crum would accept the position. But Crum, reached at home by the paper, said "I have not made my decision yet."

Crum would succeed Gene Bartow, who resigned last month to become basketball coach and athletic director for the University of Alabama at Birmingham. Crum has said he was offered the UCLA coaching position last week by the school's athletic director, J.D. Morgan.

Crum has three years remaining on a five-year contract, but Hart said in an interview that "we'll certainly let him go if he wishes."

Crum To Decide Today On Taking UCLA Post

By MANUEL SCHIFFRES Associated Press Writer LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —

Louisville basketball Coach Denny Crum was expected to announce today whether he will accept an offer to become head coach at UCLA, his alma mater.

The 40-year-old California native, once an assistant to former Bruins Coach John Wooden, was expected to reveal his decision after meeting this morning with Louisville Athletic Director Dave Hart.

The Newark Star-Ledger, in its Tuesday editions, quoted a highly-placed source as saying that Crum would accept the position. But Crum, reached at home by the paper, said "I have not made my decision yet."

Crum would succeed Gene Bartow, who resigned last month to become basketball coach and athletic director for the University of Alabama at Birmingham. Crum has said he was offered the UCLA coaching position last week by the school's athletic director, J.D. Morgan.

Crum has three years remaining on a five-year contract, but Hart said in an interview that "we'll certainly let him go if he wishes."

Despite his coaching success here, Hart says

Louisville is not prepared to enter a "bidding war" for Crum's services.

"We don't want to get to that and I don't think UCLA does, either," he said. "We will try to do everything we can to keep him, but we have to stay within reason. We've told him what we can do. We're not the wealthiest school; we're not in bad shape either."

Meantime, Hart said he has already received "feelers" from people who know people who are interested in succeeding Crum at Louisville. "There's a lot of coaches interested in this job," he said.

During Crum's six-year tenure, the Cardinals have compiled a 139-37 record and have reached NCAA post-season play four times and the National Invitation Tournament twice. Ironically, UCLA eliminated Louisville from NCAA action three times — twice in the semifinals and once, last spring, in an opening-round game.

No Trade, No Play

CHINOOK, Mont. (AP) — Atlanta defensive tackle Mike Tilleman says he will not play football this season unless the Falcons trade him to another National Football League club.

Tilleman, a 280-pound former University of Montana star, said he is disenchanted with the Falcons because the organization's priorities come before the players. He termed their philosophy as that of an "expansion team."

GOLF

MILWAUKEE — Dave Eichelberger birdied his 34th hole of the day and held on for a two-stroke victory over Morris Hatalsky, Gary McCord and Mike Morley in the rain-plagued $130,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

Eichelberger, whose only other victory in 11 years on the tour came here in 1971, finished with a final-round 70 for a 278 total. The winner earned $26,000.

LACHUTE, Que. — Veteran Judy Rankin, the leading money winner on this year's Ladies' Professional Golf Association tour, overcame shaky putting in the early going and took the top prize of $12,000 Sunday in the $80,000 Peter Jackson Classic, the only Canadian tournament on the LPGA tour.

Miss Rankin carded a two-over-par 74 Sunday and finished with a four-under-par 212 for a three-stroke victory. Pat Meyers of Ormond Beach, Fla., and Sandra Palmer of Fort Worth, Tex., tied for second at 215.

Lamb, Bain Win In Oaks Twilight Golf

The Twilight golf winners at the Oaks Country Club Friday were Jimmy Lamb and Mary Bain.

They won a playoff over Jerry Caldwell and Carita Lamb.

Both teams had scores of 33 and the team of Lamb and Bain birdied the first hole to win the playoff.

Tied at 35 were the teams of Delmer Brewer-Laura Parker and J. P. Parker-Polly Seale. Coming in at even par were Bill Roberts-Carolyn Caldwell and Mike Morgan-Patsy Neale.

Twilight golf will be held each Friday during July and August and will begin at 5:30 p. m.

Members should sign up at the pro shop by noon Friday for that day's play.

Borg Sets Sights On Connors For September In U.S. Open

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Bjorn Borg, the blond tennis ace from Sweden, has set his sights on becoming the fourth man to win more than two men's singles titles at historic Wimbledon.

But first he wants another crack at Jimmy Connors at the U.S. Open in September.

Borg beat Connors, the Belleville, Ill., whiz who had been considered the No. 1 ranking player in the world, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4 Saturday to win his second straight Wimbledon crown.

"I want to win Wimbledon again," said the broad-shouldered 21-year-old Scandinavian with the 80-pound tension in his racket strings.

If he does win again next year, he would be only the second man to capture three consecutive Wimbledon singles titles in the last 50 years. Fred Perry of England did it in the 1930s.

Australian John Newcome also has three Wimbledon singles titles, but only two in succession.

Rod Laver of Australia is the only man to win four singles championships at Wimbledon in the past half-century.

"I am not scared any more," Borg said after beating Connors here. "I am more mentally tough. Now I know I can come back. I have confidence I can win."

Borg lost to Connors in the finals of the U.S. Open at Forest Hills last fall. If he wins there this year, the Swede will be the third man in the past decade to win the Wimbledon and Forest Hills titles the same year. Laver won both in 1969 and Connors in 1974.

The only American to win at the centenary Wimbledon tourney was JoAnne Russell of Miami Beach, Fla., who captured a share of the women's doubles crown with Australian Helen Gourlay Cawley.

Defending women's singles champion Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., bowed in the semis to Virginia Wade of England, who then beat Betty Stove of The Netherlands on Friday for the women's title.

Petty Runs Away With Field In Win At Firecracker 400

By F. T. MacFEELEY
Associated Press Writer
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "Old blue was flying, said Darrell Waltrip. "I was running after him, but there was no way anybody was gonna catch him."

Old Blue is Richard Petty, winner for the seventh time in major stock car races at Daytona International Speedway when he beat Waltrip by 17.7 seconds in the rain-interrupted Firecracker 400-miler Monday.

"We weren't the fastest, but we were the quickest," Petty said. "I mean the quickest getting back to the finish line. Some of those cars that go fast down the straights don't do as well in the corners."

It wasn't only the $23,075 Petty won in the race, but the fact that it pulled him within 17 points of defending national champion Cale Yarborough in this year's race. Yarborough had mechanical trouble and had to settle for 24th place.

Petty was leading after 205 miles, when the race was halted for hours by rain.

Twenty-three laps under caution to dry the track slowed the winner's speed to 142.716 miles an hour.

Petty left behind the Chevrolets of Waltrip and third-place Benny Parsons as

Going To Dogs?

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ralston Purina Co., one of the nation's largest corporations, is exploring the possible purchase of the National Hockey League's St. Louis Blues, a published report says.

Heavy burdens in the form of a $5-million Arena mortgage and unpaid city amusement taxes have caused the Blues' owners, Sidney Salomon Jr. and Sidney Salomon III, to seek a purchaser.

Ralston Purina, a leader in animal feed and pet food, reported sales of $3.39 billion and profits of $125.9 million during its last fiscal year. Its board chairman, R. Hal Dean, declined comment on purchase explorations.

well as David Pearson's fourth-place Mercury.

A. J. Foyt, a contender in his Chevrolet until his final pit stop, was fifth.

Three women drivers started in the 41-car field but none was running at the finish. Janet Guthrie, who had 12th and 15th place finishes here in other races, ran only 11 laps before her engine failed. She finished 40th. Christine Beckers of Belgium went out with a loss of brakes after 33 laps and was 37th. Lella Lombardi of Italy fought handling problems for 103 laps before retiring in 31st place.

New! Economy Quarts from Pepsi-Cola.

Now in 6-packs of money-back bottles.

The Pepsi-Cola quart is a real quart. 32 refreshing ounces. Some soft-drink companies sell their product in bottles that look like quarts. But they're really only 26- or 28-ounce bottles. The bottles in Pepsi-Cola's new Economy Quart six-pack are real quarts... 32 refreshing ounces. So look carefully before you buy. And when they're empty, bring 'em back for a refund the easy way... in the handy carton you took them home in.

Agriculture Field Day To Be Held July 13 At Substation

Results of research on crops, beef cattle, hogs, fruits and vegetables will be on display during the UK College of Agriculture's annual research information day at the West Kentucky Substation near Princeton July 13.

This year's event features 11 tours to give farmers and others attending an opportunity to see firsthand the many experiments underway at the research facility. Research and extension staff members of the College of Agriculture will be on hand to present and interpret information being obtained from the research.

Following registration in the grove of the Plot Farm, tours will begin at 9 a. m. CDT. Box lunches will be available. Special exhibits will feature tourism, and educational opportunities that the College of Agriculture offers Kentucky's high school graduates.

Four grain tours include 21 information stops covering corn, soybeans and small grains. Some of the highlights are: use of fungicides to control soybean diseases; weed control in no-till and conventionally-planted corn and soybeans, double-cropping with soybeans and wheat, soybean varieties and small grain varieties. There are five stops on control of Johnsongrass in soybeans, including the use of a recirculating sprayer.

The forage tour features alfalfa and red clover variety tests, pasture renovation, grass varieties, alfalfa pest control and several aspects of growing Bermudagrass-legume mixtures.

A soils tour includes nitrogen fertilizer on corn and fescue, deep lime injection in Fragipan Soils, control of the Southwestern corn borer and soil moisture capacity studies. The tobacco crop tour features experiments on breeding for disease resistance, use of insecticides and control of weeds with herbicides.

A beef production tour covers cow herd management, tests with the growth promotant Rümensin, companion grazing of cattle and sheep, fescue variety trials, and hay harvest, storage and feeding.

The hog tour includes stops at the feed mill and feeding pens. Topics include self-feeding alfalfa pellets to sows, boar development tests and growing-finishing experiments on protein and fat.

A fruit production tour features plant density experiments with apples and peaches, variety trials, and apple rootstock studies.

The vegetable tour includes: fertilizing tomatoes and peppers; variety trials of pickling cucumbers, canning tomatoes, green peppers and sweet corn; and two harvesting aids in the production of cucumbers and peppers.

OLD JUNE—Old June, a half jersey, half white face cow belonging to Talmadge and Hester Sims of Rt. 6, Murray, was raised on a bucket by Mrs. Sims after her mother died. Old June is now 17 years old and is shown with her 15th heifer calf. Mr. and Mrs. Sims still have five of her calves, three of which have calves also. Old June follows them around over the pasture and lot as a dog or cat would, the Sims say.

Young Farmers Association Holds First Summer Meeting

The Calloway County Young Farmer Association held its first summer meeting on Monday, June 27 at the Murray Vocational Center. Danny Cunningham, president, presided over the meeting attended by 17 young farmers and their wives.

The local YFA Chapter was chartered at the State YFA Convention in Louisville in February 1977. The Calloway chapter currently has 25 members which attended the young farmer classes conducted by Jamie Potts at Murray Vocational Center.

Terms of business handled at the meeting centered around the financing of chapter activities and participation in state sponsored activities and contests. Details of the 2nd Annual YFA Summer Tour, to be held at Elizabethtown, July 29-30, were made available.

Operation Identification sponsored locally by the Farm Bureau was discussed.

The meeting was concluded with refreshments and a presentation of slides and information on the 11th National Young Farmer Educational Institute to be held December 11-15, 1977 in Louisville.

The Kentucky YFA will host the 11th Annual Institute which will be attended by approximately 1,500 young farmers and their wives from throughout the United States. Those present included Marty Caraway, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Max Gore, Richard Jones, Danny Kingins, Tom Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Jamie Potts, Kim Puckett, Steve Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spann, Terry Workman, Bill Ed Murdock, and Thomas Murdock.

The next meeting will be a picnic on July 26 at the new Murray-Calloway County Park.

Shea Sykes Is Star Farmer

Shea Sykes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Sykes of Murray, was announced as a Purchase Region Star Farmer of the at the 48th annual convention in Louisville last month.

Sykes has served as chapter committee chairman, chapter president, Purchase Region vice-president, a member of the state winning tobacco grading team, regional winning meats judging team and numerous other contests and activities.

Sykes is the third consecutive member of the Calloway County Chapter to be named Purchase Region Star Farmer. To receive this honor, members must have an outstanding farming program and excel in leadership activities.

In addition to this award, Sykes has also been named winner of the Dekalb Agricultural Accomplishment Award which is presented to the outstanding senior in vocational agriculture departments around the country. Sykes will receive this award at the regular July meeting scheduled at 7 p. m. tonight at the agriculture building at Calloway High.

Wheat Now A Cheaper Cattle Feed Than Corn

The wheat grower's problem of harvesting a bountiful crop that's already in surplus and low-priced is an opportunity for the cattle producer who is looking for a way to reduce costs and improve profit.

"With wheat lower priced than corn, wheat is a cheaper cattle feed than corn," says John T. Johns, extension beef cattle specialist at the University of Kentucky. "In fact, the economics of substituting wheat for corn in cattle rations is more favorable than it has been for a number of years, and the price outlook indicates it may become even more favorable in the months ahead."

During May, Kentucky farmers received an average price per bushel of $2.23 for wheat and $2.29 for corn. A year earlier, wheat was priced at $3.05 and corn $2.68.

Wheat prices have dropped in June and are expected to become more depressed, as harvest progresses. The nation's crop is large, and there is about a one-year's supply on hand from the 1976 wheat crop.

Soft red winter wheat, the kind generally grown in Kentucky, is about as good as corn for cattle feed if the wheat is fed properly, says Johns. This type of wheat contains 10.9 per cent crude protein and 78 per cent Total Digestible Nutrients (TDN). Corn has 8.9 per cent crude protein and 81 per cent TDN. Wheat is slightly higher in fiber and lower in fat than corn. A bushel of wheat weighs 60 pounds, a bushel of corn 56 pounds.

"On an energy basis alone, the two grains are equal in value when wheat is priced at 110 per cent of the price of corn," says Johns. "When corn is $2.25 per bushel, for example, wheat is worth at least $2.49 per bushel in cattle rations."

Research at the UK's West Kentucky Substation near Princeton shows that cattle can be finished satisfactorily on all-wheat rations containing no other grain if caution is exercised to avoid problems. Johns explains: Wheat is not as palatable as corn, and cattle feeders can expect a decrease in daily feed intake and in daily gain when wheat replaces all the grain in the ration. However, feed efficiency will improve as much as 10 per cent, and less supplemental protein is required when wheat is fed in place of corn. Acidosis can be a serious problem because wheat is more readily fermented in the rumen of cattle.

Feeding wheat in combination with corn or other grains in high-energy cattle finishing rations will reduce the risk of acidosis, according to Johns. Research indicates that substituting up to 50 per cent of the grain with wheat does not reduce feed intake or daily gains.

There are no problems if wheat is fed at low levels, such as in backgrounding rations for growing calves, even if it is the only grain fed.

"Regardless of the amount of wheat in the cattle ration, wheat must be processed by coarse grinding, cracking or rolling," says Johns. "Do not grind wheat fine because this decreases palatability, feed intake and daily gains."

For epicurean desserts serve sherbets with liqueurs. Lemon sherbet, for example, is delectable topped with creme de menthe, orange sherbet topped with an orange-flavor liqueur.

Individual Retirement Accounts:
TODAY'S plan for TOMORROW'S security

How much can I contribute to my IRA?

Federal law allows a maximum annual contribution of $1,500 or 15% of wages, whichever is less. Of course, smaller amounts can be contributed each year.

What happens if I contribute too much in any year?

If you contribute more than the maximum allowable in any year, a 6% tax will be imposed on the excess contribution. The tax will continue to be imposed until you "undercontribute" in a later year.

Are my contributions tax deductible?

For Federal income tax purposes, contributions to an IRA are fully deductible from gross income up to the maximum allowed by law. You can deduct your contribution even though you don't itemize deductions.

We would like the opportunity to discuss with you, first hand, how such an account might benefit you.

Civil Service Commission Report Shows Surprising Facts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal civil servant retired on grounds that he was disabled, yet earned a total of $117,560 in a new job in 1974 and 1975, an internal Civil Service Commission report shows.

Another disability pensioner held a job that paid him a total of $100,943 in the same two years.

Yet another supposedly disabled federal pensioner earned $76,793 in a single year, and still another earned $66,444 in one year.

At the same time, the four were drawing disability pensions ranging from $404 to $1,793 per month, paid mostly by the taxpayers.

The pensioners, whose names were not listed, are among the commission's "Top 20" — persons who earned the most in new jobs while drawing pension checks granted because they could not perform their old government jobs efficiently.

These 20 get the most from the system that grants disability pensions to federal workers who in many cases still are able to work.

On the average, the 20 earned more than $29,000 a year in 1974 and 1975, while drawing disability pensions of $9,284 per year. And most of the pension was considered tax-free "sick pay."

The 20 are a small minority among the more than 279,000 disability pensioners drawing more than $1.5 billion a year. Yet they illustrate dramatically features of the system that have drawn criticism.

Under the system: —The definition of disability is so broad and vague that

Two Killed, Two Wounded In Hijack

NEW YORK (AP) — The gunman stood at the front of the bus, aiming a .45-caliber pistol at a college librarian already bleeding from one gunshot wound to the neck.

"This is what's going to happen to you if you don't do what I say," the gunman told 25 passengers as he ordered the driver to turn the Vermont-bound bus toward John F. Kennedy International Airport.

Moments later, after the bus had crashed through an airport fence and the hijacker had killed a woman passenger and the driver and dumped them onto a runway, passenger Bruce Devoer, 17, of East Hartford, Conn., was ordered to drive the bus.

"I decided, as did the other passengers, that it wouldn't pay off to try and rush him," said Devoer of the nine-hour ordeal, in which two were killed, two were wounded and one of the nation's largest airports was turned into an armed camp by a man demanding $6 million and a plane to fly him to Cuba.

Panamanian-born Luis Robinson, 26, a U.S. Navy seaman from Somerset, N.J., surrendered to police and released all his hostages just before midnight.

He was to be arraigned today on charges of murder, kidnapping and illegal possession of a weapon.

Devoer was ordered to drive after Norman Bozick, the 41-year-old driver of the Vermont Transit Co. bus, was fatally wounded. Bozick died later at a hospital.

Before that, Nettie Blassberg, 57, of Greenfield, Mass., had been shot and killed when she tried to overpower her captor. "She reached up behind him and grabbed him around the throat and tried to do karate on him so that he would drop the gun," said 11-year-old Sunjoy TotEAU.

"He said 'Don't ever ever try that' and he shot her," the young passenger said.

Devoer said Bozick was shot when he reacted to the woman's death and "made a lunge for the man and tried to push him out of the bus."

A Hong Kong businessman aboard the bus, Jimmy Lo, was seriously wounded several hours later when he tried to escape during negotiations with Robinson.

And an 8-year-old boy suffered cuts and bruises when he was hurled from the moving bus about half an hour before Robinson surrendered.

"I'm happy to be alive. We're all happy to be alive because it was touch and go and none of us knew if we'd ever get off the bus," said Devoer.

"We were ... in the Bronx when I heard a gunshot and this man walked forward with another man pointing a gun at him," Devoer said.

The wounded man was John McGavern of Hartford, Conn., a librarian at the University of Hartford. He was shot in the neck.

McGavern was shoved off the bus at the airport. Interviewed later from a hospital stretcher, McGavern described Robinson as "racially upset."

He said Robinson "was very upset about the racial situation in the United States. He talked about how badly he had been treated in the United States and wanted to leave."

At Least 16 Persons Die On State Highways Over Holiday

By The Associated Press

At least 16 persons died in traffic accidents on Kentucky highways during the July 4 holiday weekend, state police said.

The 16 deaths reversed a recent upward trend in traffic deaths over the Independence Day weekend. A total of 21 died in 1976 and 19 were killed in 1975.

This year's deaths, tabulated from 6 p. m. local time Friday through midnight local time Monday, lifted the 1977 death toll in Kentucky to 427, compared with 433 through the same period a year ago.

Police said Jonathan H. Huff, 3, of Horse Branch, Ky., in Ohio County, was killed Monday when he was struck by a pick-up truck on Ky. 1245 near Echols.

The driver of the truck, Larry Wayne Waddell, 29, of Beaver Dam, Ky., said he was unable to stop when the boy ran in front of the vehicle, said police, who did not file charges against Waddell.

Phyllis Swenson, 38, of Louisville died Sunday night in an accident about two miles north of Boston on Ky. 61 in Nelson County, state police said.

Officers said a car struck the Swenson vehicle while attempting to pass, causing the Swenson auto to spin out of control and overturn. The second car continued on, but police later arrested Bernie Lee Dones and Wallace Ray Wiseman of Boston, Ky.

Wiseman was charged with reckless homicide and both face charges of tampering with physical evidence, officers reported.

Kelly M. Smith, 4, of Danville, was struck and fatally injured by an auto in the parking lot of a grocery store at Danville Sunday night.

Phyllis Williams, 24, of Louisville died late Sunday of injuries received several hours earlier when the motorcycle on which she was a passenger and a car collided in Jefferson County.

Glenn Walters, 66, of Benton was killed Sunday when his car ran off the Benton-Gilbertsville Road in Marshall County just north of Benton.

In other weekend accidents: —Timothy Black, 19, of Valley Station in southern Jefferson County, died at Louisville General Hospital Saturday night after the car in which he was a passenger left a Breckinridge County road 10 miles south of Harned.

—George Robert Sells died Sunday when the truck he was driving ran off Ky. 200 some three miles south of Monticello.

—Three Lexington teenagers died early Saturday when a car left Cleveland Pike and struck a row of trees. The victims were Shirley Hill and Marion Moore, both 18, and Hobart Stamper, 17.

—David Goodin, 22, and Walter Smith Jr., 33, both of Corbin, were killed Saturday in a two-car crash 12 miles south of London on Ky. 770.

—Peggy A. Tormey, 22, of Norcross, Ga., was the victim of a Warren County accident on Interstate 65.

—Jeffrey Miller, 15, of Nicholasville, died Saturday of injuries received in a Jessamine County accident Friday night.

—Robert Watts, 28, of Nashville, Tenn., was killed Saturday in a car motorcycle collision five miles west of Manchester on the Daniel Boone Parkway.

—Larry V. West, 21, of Cloverlick in Harlan County, died in a two car collision Saturday at the south limits of Cumberland.

Power...

"We chatted for up to an hour and I convinced Terry of my argument," the governor recalled. "He reluctantly agreed not to oppose the bill. I don't know how he voted."

McBrayer, now state commerce commissioner, advised Carroll sometime ago he believes the erosion of the lieutenant governor's authority was a mistake that should be rectified.

"I told him that quite honestly I wasn't going to say what I would do," the governor said.

Incidentally, McBrayer is openly talking of the disagreement with Carroll over that issue, citing it as one proof that he is not a slavish follower of the governor's policies.

Carroll has tried to make up to Mrs. Stovall in some ways for the frustrating idleness she endures.

He offered her administrative power over three agencies — which she declined — and then jurisdiction over two innocuous interstate groups — which he accepted.

The trouble is, Carroll said, "That it's a little unfair for me to take any agency where I appointed the head and tell him, 'now you're going to work for Thelma.'"

He said he informed Mrs. Stovall long ago that he was not going to "ask any existing agency to transfer to her. She didn't find any fault with that."

Somewhat disillusioned about it all, Mrs. Stovall has been suggesting combining a lieutenant governor's office tripped of power with another constitutional office which handles routine administrative duties — such as the secretary of state.

But Carroll's declaration of neutrality about the issue in the next legislature may make such a step unnecessary.

The push apparently is under way to resurrect the lieutenant governor's authority.

Rally Broken Up Monday Ku Klux Klan Antibusing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Flagstaffs, signboards, eggs and fists were thrown as about 100 young demonstrators broke up a Ku Klux Klan antibusing rally on the steps of the Statehouse.

State police restored order quickly, and Ku Klux Klan Imperial Wizard Dale Reusch, 38, vowed to return in September. He said he would "meet violence with violence."

The July 4th melee here was the second Klan rally broken up violently over the holiday weekend.

In Plains, Ga., President Carter's hometown, Saturday night, Buddy Cochran injured 30 persons, 19 of whom were admitted to a hospital, when he drove his sports car through a crowd of 250 persons into a platform on which Bill Wilkinson, imperial wizard of the Invisible Empire of the Ku Klux Klan, was speaking.

The 30-year-old auto mechanic from Americus, Ga., about 10 miles west of Plains, was charged with aggravated assault and held on $190,000 bond.

Some 300 persons protesting the Columbus rally paraded on the outskirts of the state capitol grounds Monday, but when Reusch began his speech, about 100 protesters moved up the steps.

"You talk sick," one man told Reusch.

"We will go on with the rally regardless of the agitation," replied Reusch.
